Postal route changes bring patron protests

By RICH ADAMS
Many postal patrons on Hancock County rural routes are upset over changes in address ordered by postal officials in Bay St. Louis.
The changes of rural route and box numbers announced in letters to residents Saturday was required due to "overburdened mail carriers," said Frank F. Taconi, Bay St. Louis postmaster.
The route changes should improve mail services, he said.
Ms. Oscar Brew, a Shoreline Park resident whose address was one of the many changed, labels the new address change "a catastrophe."
"Ms. Brew claims many rural addresses were 'changed just a few months ago,' and says this latest change will prove very costly to many rural residents.
"People on pensions will have to bear a large expense to mail out notices changing their address," Ms. Brew said.
"I personally have at least 100 correspondents to notify of this address change, including creditors, a Federal Communications Commission radio license, and boat registration," she continued.

"I just got new personal checks and new personal stationery that I'll have to change too," she added.
"I don't see how they can change our addresses without any advance notice," said Ms. Brew, stating the notice in Saturday's mail was the first she had heard of the change.
"Saturday we changed all RFD routes to offer better service," said Taconi.
Taconi said a good deal of delivery inside city limits has been on rural routes. The new address changes will take a considerable burden off of the rural carriers, he added.
"Some addresses were changed more than a year ago because of carriers being overburdened," he continued.
"This time the change is permanent," Taconi said, later qualifying that "permanence" when he added, "the new addresses will be in effect at least four or five years."
The postmaster said most of the mechanics or paper work involved in the address changes will be handled by the Postal Service.

Water, sewerage, drainage involved

New City engineers seeking $10 million for improvements

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Bay St. Louis Council Monday authorized Mayor Larry Bennett to sign pre-applications for some $10.1 million in loans and grants from Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).
If approved, the funds will be used for water, sewerage and drainage improvements throughout the City.
Wayne Smith, local FmHA representative, said concerning the application procedures, "It is a long, drawn out process. It won't be as fast as the Kiln (Kiln Fire and Water District) where we got approval in six months."
Smith said 30 to 45 days are required for the pre-application to be processed before determining if FmHA will accept the proposal drawn up by the engineering firm of Broadway and Seal of Picaune.

Ronnie Murray of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission helped the engineering firm with the pre-application.
If approved, the loan monies will be offered at five-percent interest with up to 35 years to repay.
Joe Brown Sr. of Joe Brown Engineers addressed the Council in reference to its application through the Small Cities Project totaling $227,000 for sewer and water extensions in the 500 block of Washington, Sycamore and Keller Streets.
Brown said after checking with federal offices in Atlanta, he found an engineer on the project is not necessary at this time and he asked the Council to either return his proposal or hold it in abeyance until such time as the City is required to have an engineer on the project.
A second public hearing is scheduled for 5 p.m. tonight at Bay St. Louis City Hall on the Community Development Project.

Civic center to get new roof

Waveland 1979 budget approaches $2 million

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
The Waveland City Council, at a special meeting Tuesday, approved a 1979 budget totaling almost $2 million and awarded a contract for a new roof on the Waveland Civic Center.
No one from Waveland's public sector appeared at the meeting, a public hearing on how some $84,759 in federal revenue sharing funds are to be spent.
The Universal Roofing Co. of Picaune was awarded the $6,000 Civic Center contract.
Waveland Mayor John Longo said, "We received estimates from three or four companies, and Universal gave us the lowest price."
A representative from the company said urethane will be used in the roof, which in his opinion, excels conventional materials.
The approved 1979 budget for the Waveland Police Department is $111,500; an increase of $14,749 over the department's 1978 expenditures of $96,751.

Fire Department expenditures are also increased from the 1978 figure by $17,596. The new Fire Department budget is $69,300.
The 1979 approved budget of $1,921,238 exceeds the previous year's expenditures of $1,868,248 by $52,990.
"Our biggest increases are in public services, the police and fire departments. There are additional paid departments in this city, and new cars and equipment must be purchased," said Mayor Longo.

Barbara Rappold, city clerk, said there will be a second public hearing on allocation of federal revenue sharing funds Sept. 20 when final action will be taken on those figures.

Local Flavor predominates Fair

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Pat Murphy, chairman of the special booths for the Hancock County Fair Association, reports "Local flavor" will be the theme at this year's County Fair, Sept. 25-30.
All booths will be operated by local church, civic, fraternal organization, according to Murphy.
"There will be no more fly-by-night groups coming in and taking the money out of the County," reported Murphy. There will be no money games. The Fair Association will supply lights and hold a meeting to discuss final set up the booths for participating groups, the groups will do their own decorating.

The Fair will feature livestock, commercial, homecoming, FFA, 4-H, Boy Scouts, livestock, cattle, swine, poultry and other exhibits.
The Fair Association is seeking some small rides for the kids, according to Murphy.
There were some problems at last year's Fair and Murphy put emphasis on the fact that there will be no "out side clip joints" this year.
Monday night the Fair Association held a meeting to discuss final preparations at the Fair Grounds.

Lipton Cup Regatta slated for BYWC

By MALIN CHAMBERLIN
BYWC REPORTER
The Bay Waveland Yacht Club is hosting the 50th annual Gulf Yachting Association Lipton Cup Championship Regatta during the three-day Labor Day weekend.
This event, sailed in club-owned boats, was inaugurated in 1920. Pensacola Yacht Club won that first year, and Eastern Shore in 1921. In 1922, Pensacola Yacht Club and Southern Yacht Club tied for first place. Since then, competition for this cup has been tough.
To date, Southern Yacht Club and Pensacola Yacht Club have each won the event eleven times, and tied each other twice for first place.
Southern also has a first place tie with St. Andrew's Bay. Biloxi has won nine times. St. Andrew's Bay and Bay Waveland have won five times each, excluding St. Andrew's tie with Southern.

Some 18 member clubs of the Gulf Yachting Association will be represented by four skippers and their crews sailing a four-race series in club-owned Flying Scots, which are 19-foot centerboard sloops.
The schedule calls for first race Saturday afternoon, and fourth race Monday morning.
The defending champion, Bay Waveland, will meet rugged competition from such rivals as Southern, Pensacola, New Orleans, and St. Andrew's Bay.
This does not mean that one of these teams will be the winner of the Lipton Cup. Anything can happen in a sailboat race.

IRS notices going to bus, truck users

Notices of possible Federal Highway Use Tax delinquency are being mailed to 1,053 truck and bus owners and users in Mississippi. The mailing is part of the IRS's annual Highway Use Tax Returns Compliance Program.

Truck and bus owners who do not respond, or give an incomplete response to the notices, will be contacted by IRS personnel beginning in late September.

Taxpayers who are delinquent in filing their highway use tax returns should not wait to be contacted, but should file immediately to avoid additional penalties and interest.

A taxpayer receiving a notice of potential liability, but who is not liable for the tax, should complete the appropriate section of the notice and return it to the IRS.

Because the Highway Use Tax applies to vehicle users, not all owners are liable for it. For example, a lessee may be liable if local law requires the vehicle to be registered in the lessee's name.

The IRS identifies potential nonfilers and under-reporters by matching its files state motor vehicle registration records.

The tax applies to trucks weighing 13,000 lbs. or more, truck tractors of 5,500 lbs. or more, and buses that use public highways. The amount of tax depends on the vehicle weight and the number of axles.

More detailed information can be found in IRS Publication 349, "Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Truck Tractors and Buses," available free at IRS offices.

'Let It Be-Wild and Free'

A baby raccoon looks like the perfect pet to a child. The temptation to carry the animal home is often too great to resist. But wildlife babies do not make good pets, according to a new publication from the National Wildlife Federation.

"Let It Be-Wild and Free" is a 12-page pamphlet available free of charge for the first copy and 25 cents for each additional copy. It is designed to teach children what to do if they find an apparently orphaned baby animal.

The four-color pamphlet points out that while a wildlife pet can be cute and cuddly as a baby, the animal can grow up to be destructive and even dangerous. Catching and keeping a wild pet can also be a violation of wildlife conservation laws.

For copies of "Let It Be-Wild and Free," write the National Wildlife Federation, Dept. WF, 1412 16th Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20038.

Real estate license survey underway

What happens to the real estate licensee after he is certified to act in the capacity of broker or salesperson?

To date, nobody knows for sure. But a study may conclude the unknown, according to Dr. Charles Cartee, project director of a Bureau of Business Research study of Mississippi real estate brokers and salespeople at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Cartee said research will be carried out by mail questionnaires of either all or a selected sample of active and non-active licensed real estate brokers and salespeople in Mississippi.

The survey will be developed in cooperation with the Mississippi Real Estate Commission, the Mississippi State Board of Realtors and a representative group of brokers and salespeople.

Results will be tabulated via standard computer procedures and will include descriptive statistics and an analysis of the major findings. The $2,000 study is expected to take from 6-9 months to complete.

This summer, more than 6,500 college and university students are getting a first hand look at Army life as ROTC cadets attending Advanced Camp.

A required training period for all Senior Army ROTC cadets, Advanced Camp is an intensive six-week program geared to preparing college students for service as Army officers after graduation.

Camps are located at Fort Bragg, North Carolina; Fort Riley, Kansas; and Fort Lewis, Washington. A small number of cadets are also attending the Ranger Camp at Fort Benning, Georgia. All cadets receive pay for attending the camps.

According to Major General Charles C. Rogers, Deputy Chief of Staff for ROTC, Advanced Camp is "putting theory into practice. The training is designed to allow cadets to get the feel of actual Army life-to give them an opportunity to put into practice the things they have been learning in their classrooms."

ged with special courses to build ability, strength and confidence. "There is peer pressure to get through, to make it," the General said.

Many of the training events are designed to develop leadership. One is particularly challenging. The cadets are divided into teams. Each team maneuvers over a course which may contain as many as 18 individual "problems." At each "problem" point, a leader for the team is selected. The problem may be to rescue an injured person or to move a case of ammunition from one point to another using whatever materials are provided as part of the problem.

The cadet team leader is not only responsible for finding the solution, but for selecting the members of the team who will be best able to accomplish the task. The cadet must truly lead his or her teammates. There is a set time period, often as little as 15 minutes, in which to find the solution and accomplish the task.

As one cadet put it, "When I came to Advanced Camp I wasn't sure what to expect, not just of the Camp, but of myself. And it was the last part that had me worried. I know a lot more about myself now. I know I can do a lot of things I thought I couldn't do."

News from the Church of St. Ann

A thought for the day from the library of Father Canisius Hayes, Pastor St. Ann's Parish.

The question for each man to settle is not what he would do if he had means, time, influence and educational advantages, but what he will do with the things he has.

During Saturday and Sunday Masses at St. Ann's Church the congregation rejoiced over the election of the new Pontiff, Pope John Paul I, with a liturgy appropriate for the occasion.

Religion classes for children attending public school, grades, first, second, third and fourth, will begin Tuesday, September 5, in St. Ann's hall after school and for grades fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth Thursday, September 7.

Assisting Sister Mary Cornelia with classes will be Madonna Boos, Claudia Lang, Mary Klein, Geraldine Ingersoll, Gwen Blackledge, Linda Curet, Shirley Hudson and Polly Boswell.

Classes for students preparing for the Sacrament of Confirmation will begin Sunday, September 17, after 9:15 a.m. Mass at St. Ann's Church with Rosemary Frechou and Joseph and Gwen Blackledge as teachers.

New scientific technology predicts costal tidal waves

Mississippi Gulf Coast residents, well aware of the devastation to be wrought by tidal waves such as the one pushed ashore by Hurricane Camille in 1969, will be relieved to know Gulf of Mexico waters so far have been unaffected by "Tsunamis."

"Marine monsters"-tidal waves that cross oceans at speeds of 500 miles per hour-have terrorized coastal dwellers for hundreds of years.

Scientists can do nothing to halt or divert these killer waves, but modern technology is now providing more advance notice of their arrival.

In 1883, in Sumatra, more than 36,000 people lost their lives when a wave hit the town of Telok Petong after the eruption of an Indonesian volcano Krakatoa.

Thirteen years later, a giant, 110-foot "tsunami," Japanese for "Harbor Wave," pummeled the Japanese coast of Honshu, taking more than 27,000 lives.

Tsunamis following a huge earthquake in Lisbon in 1775 killed thousands of coastal dwellers in Portugal, Africa and Spain.

More recently, on April Fool's Day in 1946, a 56-foot wave killed 170 people in Hilo, Hawaii, and the 1964 Good Friday earthquake in Alaska caused tidal waves to wreak havoc on coastal areas in both Alaska and California.

Wavelengths of tsunamis, the accepted scientific name for the waves, can measure up to 150 miles compared with 300 yards between the tips of normal sea waves.

When tsunamis travel in deep water, they rise no higher than a few feet above the sea's surface.

But when the waves reach shallower water, they undergo a profound change.

As the National Wildlife Federation describes the phenomenon, the drag from the seabottom slows down the onrushing set of waves, bunching the individual crests together.

Unable to expend their huge supply of energy in horizontal speed, the waves build upwards, sometimes cresting into breakers more than 100-feet high.

The first warning system for tsunamis was set up after the Hilo, Hawaii disaster in 1946.

Seismology experts then began to monitor the signs of impending tidal waves and to transmit radio warnings around the Pacific.

Improvements of the system were made after the Alaskan earthquake struck before adequate warning could be issued.

Today, the Pacific Tsunami Warning System has 52 tidal stations and 31 seismic stations.

When a set of Soviet observation sites joined the system earlier this year, coverage of the entire Pacific was complete.

The system's main weakness lies in the possibility of false alarms, the federation noted.

Earlier this year, for example, Soviet and Japanese scientists issued tsunami warnings for a wave that rose no more than eight inches before it splashed gently on the shorelines.

But recent developments in seismography have caused scientists to hope that false alarms can be eliminated.

Ironically, only the arrival of another potentially disastrous tidal wave can truly test the new technology.

Waveland Civic Association

"Jerry Lewis Telethon"

Waveland Civic Association will again be a part of a national group of organizations sponsoring the Jerry Lewis Muscular dystrophy telethon.

We are fortunate in having such a fine organization as the civic group in Waveland lending a hand in worthwhile events throughout the year.

In addition to members of the Civic Association there will be volunteers helping man the telephones from 5 p.m. Sunday until 6 p.m. Monday at the Waveland City Hall to help raise funds for this worthy cause.

The Jerry Lewis Telethon will be carried by TV stations throughout the nation with WVUE-Channel 8 of New Orleans tying in with the Waveland group.

Funds raised during the Telethon will be used for research and patient service programs of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Waveland accounted for $4765 in pledges plus $900 in the fish bowl last year. The local coordinator for the Civic Association has set a $10,000 goal for this Labor Day weekend.

In order for them to reach this goal they will need pledges from you, the people of Hancock County, Henderson Point and Pass Christian.

So be generous in your giving, help science conquer Muscular Dystrophy. Wouldn't it be nice to conquer it during your lifetime.

Annual Labor Day Fireworks

The Waveland Civic Association's annual Labor Day Fireworks will be Sunday night at 8:30 p.m.

The Fireworks display will be at the Garfield Ladner Memorial pier, so the young as well as the old can enjoy.

The Civic Association has received help from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland in sponsoring this community service. They all should be commended for their efforts.

Many of us, when we were small, didn't realize the dangers of fireworks. Many have been injured for life and even some killed for improper use of fireworks.

It is wonderful to have such an organization sponsor the fireworks under professional directions so that we can all enjoy them without facing the dangers of firing them ourselves.

Keep up the good work, Waveland Civic Association. Your group is helping better our county.

Tri-county jobless rate jumps

The July unemployment rate on the Mississippi Gulf Coast increased slightly compared to the previous month, but remained well below the eight percent rate recorded for July of last year.

A tri-county Hancock-Harrison-Stone County report issued by the Mississippi State Employment Service shows a 7.6 percent unemployment rate for July of this year, six-tenths of a percent higher than in June, 1978.

The service attributes the cause of the unemployment advance to a rise in the number of unemployment claims paid.

Seasonal lay-offs at the end of June by a large non-profit educational institution was the sole cause of the increase, the service states.

Last year in July, 4,900 people were unemployed compared to 4,760 in July of this year.

The available civilian labor force for July, 1978, totaling 62,320 is down 400 from the previous month, but is up 1,210 workers over July, 1977.

Of that total for July this year, 4,760 were reported out of work, producing the 7.6 percent unemployment rate.

The service estimated 8,040 workers were employed in manufacturing at mid-July this year, a decline of 60 positions from June of this year. But only 7,140 persons were employed in manufacturing in July last year.

The drop from June to July this year occurred primarily in seafood processing, the report indicated.

The June lay-off at the educational facility combined with a small reduction in construction and government were cited as the reasons for a decline of 420 workers in the non-manufacturing sector, the service noted.

Ms. Favre said. "People in the community don't realize how much we are growing. We are becoming a progressive hospital," she added.

Ms. Favre said new innovations and equipment at the hospital include blood pressure monitors, arterial line monitors for intensive care patients, and scheduling of additional surgery.

"The hospital will eventually have a maternity clinic opening across the street. Then we'll start delivering babies at Hancock General again," she said.

She said the hospital plans to extend its surgical services to include the full 24-hour period of each day.

She said extra staff personnel, such as anesthesiologists and nurses are already employed by the hospital in preparation for the extension of surgery.

Gilmore said he is currently involved in negotiations with surgeons to provide the 24-hour emergency service.

Ms. Favre is married to Pat Favre of Bay St. Louis, retired Air Force major currently employed with IBM.

State Police Chief urges caution

Woman's role in holiday highway safety stressed

Remembering the adage that "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world," James Finch, Mississippi Commissioner of public safety, is requesting the woman's assistance in monitoring her man's driving habits this Labor Day weekend.

Commissioner Finch said, "During the same 78-hour period last year, 144 drivers were involved in accidents of which 108 were males, and 36 were females.

"The ages of the men involved in the highest percentage of the accidents ranged from 25 to 34 years," the commissioner added.

"Because of these statistics," the commissioner said, "we are asking that mothers, wives, sisters, girlfriends, and women news reporters throughout the State, encourage, insist, and demand that all the men in their lives drive safely and with much care from 6 p.m. on Friday, through Midnight on Monday."

The commissioner said, "If we can get the women of Mississippi, including our charming Lt. Governor Evelyn Gandy, to assist our efforts to make this a fatality-free period, we feel we will be successful."

"As a general rule women are the best drivers, but our statistics show that there are fewer women drivers than men and they are traveling shorter distances," Finch explained.

Finch said, "We will be using every available officer to patrol the highways and are asking all motorists to turn their headlights on low beam to remind other drivers to do their part in helping us to avoid accidents, injuries, and deaths during this the last major holiday of the summer."

Family feud results in gunshots, arrests

A family argument over ownership of a saw resulted in an exchange of gunfire Saturday leaving one Kiln man in poor condition in intensive care at Gulf Coast Community Hospital and a husband and wife, also of Kiln, in jail.

A reported family argument between Glen Hamrick, 53, and James Jenkins, 40, Hamrick's son-in-law and next-door neighbor, allegedly resulted in a fist fight over a saw owned by Jenkins, Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner's office reported.

Jenkins and Hamrick allegedly started hitting each other, and then Jenkins reportedly struck Mrs. Hamrick in the face, Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson said.

Hamrick allegedly went into his house and got a .22 caliber rifle and shot over Jenkin's head to stop Jenkins from hitting his wife, the deputy continued.

Jenkins went to his home, got a gun, and returned to the Hamrick residence. Jenkins, from outside the house, allegedly shot through an open window, striking Hamrick once in the back, the Sheriff's Office reported.

Injured, Hamrick then got his gun and allegedly proceeded to shoot back at Jenkins, hitting him five times, officers said.

Affidavits for the Hamricks' arrest were signed by Jenkins' wife.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy A. J. Cuevas made the arrests.

Hamrick was treated at Gulfport Memorial Hospital and released to the Sheriff's custody.

"We have the case under investigation," Peterson said early this week.

"We expect Jenkins to recover, and are going to talk to him at the hospital today," the investigator added.

Peterson said that charges of aggravated assault and battery may be filed against Jenkins by the Hamricks.

Investigating officers in the case are Deputies Fairley Necaise, Cuevas, Dennis Lynch, and Auxiliary Deputy Harold Heine.

Hamrick and his wife have been freed under a $5,000 property bond and will appear before Justice Court Judge William Frisbie Monday, September 11.

may be obtained in Otis' office, and the signed petitions are also to be filed with him.

In the past, the deadline to qualify was 30 days before the election, but Section 37-5-9 of the Mississippi Code of 1972 was recently amended to require the 60-day deadline, or September 7, 1978.

This section also specifies that the candidate who receives the highest number of votes cast in the election shall be declared elected, even if no-one has a majority in the case of more than 2 candidates. This year, there will only be the one member of the County School Board elected, the other Seats have expired terms.

Other offices on the General Election ballot will be United States Senator, one Circuit Judge, and two Chancery Judges as well as the Beat 5 County School Board member.

As in past elections, the deadline to register to vote in the General Election will be at noon on Saturday, October 7, 1978, and the office of the Circuit Clerk, Room 3 in the Court House, will be open from 8 to noon Saturday, September 30 and Saturday, October 7, as a service to those not able to come in during the regular week-day hours from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

The Court House will be closed Monday, September 4, in observance of Labor Day.

Letters to the Editor

Waveland PD praised

Chief Donald Dorn
Waveland Police Department

Dear Chief Dorn:

It is time to put our feelings into words about the Waveland Police Department.

It has been about 28 months since the Waveland Resort Inn has been under our management. In that time there have been many thousands of people coming and going, which would naturally cause some problems requiring police attention.

We have called the Police Department several times and have never been let down. They are always there in a matter of minutes, anxious and able to take care of the problem, and never complaining if it happens to be a false alarm.

This has indeed been a great comfort to us, and we want you to know you have our wholehearted support. The Mayor and City of Waveland can be justifiably proud of your Department.

Red Cross helps

Editor:

Dear Sir:

On August 10th, at 10 or 11 p.m., Mrs. Laurent Kergosien was rudely awakened by the shrill ringing of her telephone. From the other end of her line was a woman in shock, restraining hysteria, begging Mrs. Kergosien to get her children home from the military.

Mrs. Kergosien's calm voice was not much help to this other person; you see that other person couldn't think straight enough to give the information needed for contacting a son in Korea, two daughters in Puerto Rico, one son in Pennsylvania.

Anyway, this service had to begin the next morning, not at 11 o'clock at night.

Mrs. Kergosien works for the American Red Cross. She's a much needed person who was sorely over-worked by our family when Eddie was killed. Without her help our children would most likely not have gotten here as quickly as they did when we needed them most.

It's nice to know someone is there anytime of day or night to work so hard to get your loved ones home when you needed them.

Her duties are endless when you need information about service-connected people.

Thank you Mrs. Kergosien and American Red Cross.

Roots in Hancock

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Ellis,

I am enclosing my check to cover subscription to the Echo. I wish to commend your work over the years with the Echo and pleased you are now the editor and publisher.

As a native and old time settler of the Kiln community of Hancock County, I remember your family as my friends and neighbors.

You will recall my family and many others were moved to make room for NASA and that is the reason I have settled down near my children in the Nugent area of Harrison County.

I was 85 years old on the 21st of this month and proud to have had a small part in the growth and development of Hancock County.

I held the office of Treasurer of the county when it was discontinued in 1920 and after that over a period of years I worked in clerical positions under many administrations in the Courthouse.

I was active in developing the school system in the county as a member of the Kiln School Board. I was a charter member and one of the original organizers of the Coast Electric Power Association. I am now very pleased to note the wonderful progress made by Hancock County.

I am enjoying the convenience of modern transportation available to the Mississippi Gulf Coast. I have just returned from a visit with my daughter, Quida, in Minnesota.

I left Minneapolis on the Southern air line at 11:40 a.m. and reached Gulfport at 2:45 p.m. So you know I favor and appreciate modern travel by air.

I have been blessed with a long and active life and have enjoyed reading the Echo over this period of years.

In closing I extend best wishes to you and your staff at the Echo. I am,

Sincerely,
Sylvester Moran

HEALTH TIPS

Presented as a Public Service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper.

Immunization is a priceless health asset. Vaccines to prevent smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and typhoid fever have been available for many years. Whooping cough, polio and "flu" vaccines were late added to the list. And most recently we added vaccines to protect against measles, German measles and mumps.

Immunization produces such a light form of a disease that the body reacts against it without becoming sick. This is called active immunity. Passive immunity is acquired from injections of protective substances produced in the body of an animal or another person.

Infants receive passive immunity from their mothers against most common infectious diseases their mothers have had, such as measles, and this immunity protects them during the first few months of life.

Before this century diphtheria was among the most dreaded diseases of infants and children. Early in the 1900's diphtheria toxoid was developed to protect children against this mass killer.

Diphtheria toxoid is customarily given to small children in combination with tetanus toxoid and whooping cough vaccine for the basis immunization of children against all three diseases.

Whooping cough killed many children before a potent vaccine was perfected in the early 1930's. Deaths continue to occur where vaccination is neglected.

Tetanus immunization is of growing importance. Tetanus germs, which lie dormant in the soil, may contaminate wounds sustained in auto accidents, sports, gardening, natural disasters, fires or explosions.

Booster doses are needed every ten years or whenever a wound that could be infected occurs more than a year after immunization.

The Sabin oral polio vaccine is administered by mouth on a lump of sugar or in sweet liquid. A booster dose of the combined Sabin vaccine after 12 to 15 months and on entering school insures immunity to all three polio viruses.

With school days fast approaching, parents should be reminded that this is the time to see that all the family's immunizations are up to date. Tetanus boosters are especially important for every family member including adults.

For immunizations, go to your private physician or your county health department.

NASA Naval Science group reorganizes

The Chief of Naval Operations has established a new Naval shore activity at NSTL, the Office of Naval Research Ocean Science and Technology Detachment, headed by Gordon Hamilton.

The Office of Naval Research (ONR), known throughout the academic community, is the principal office within the Navy that sponsors basic research programs related to Navy interests.

The detachment sponsors Navy-related oceanographic research at leading civilian oceanographic institutions and universities.

The establishment of the ONR Science and Technology Detachment does not basically add a new organization to NSTL but is more in the nature of a reorganization involving the Ocean Science and Technology Directorate at the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity (NORDA).

The organizational change was made to give that group greater visibility to the university research community.

Personnel in the detachment, which has a staff of 22, will consist largely of scientific people already at NSTL in the directorate.

Most of that staff will be transferred in place of the ONR detachment, except for a few individuals who will be transferred back to the Office of Naval Research in Washington.

Hamilton has headed this same group since 1972 when it was the Ocean Science and Technology Division of Office of Naval Research.

The new organization essentially reverts to the original management structure.

USM initiates freshman 'Peer Advisement' class

Beginning fall semester at the University of Southern Mississippi, all incoming freshmen will be required to attend a weekly freshmen orientation known as "Peer Advisement".

The sessions conducted by fellow upperclassmen, drawn from the Mini-Quarter facilitator program, will be held on Wednesdays throughout the year at fifth period (noon to 12:50 p.m.). The first meeting was held yesterday at fifth period at Bennett Auditorium. Rooms and group leaders were assigned then.

Program coordinators Dr. Bill Shafer and Dr. Becky Brechtel said the new effort specifically aims to assist freshmen in adjusting to campus living, both academically and socially. In essence, the program will attempt to give each freshman a small group atmosphere where he might bring problems and find answers about his new college life.

Major emphasis areas will include communication skills, study skills, co-curricular activities, referral resources, self-evaluation and advisement. Some 25 Mini-Quarter facilitators will serve as instructors.

Outside activities, as well as rap sessions, are also planned. "Occasionally something special may be planned for the students, who are interested," the coordinators said. "But the main purpose is to retain group participation and make everyone feel involved."

Magee among talented trio working in Delta's QB slot

A three-way battle appears to be shaping up at Delta State as to who will open at quarterback Sept. 9 when the Statesmen kick off the 1978 season at East Texas State.

Junior Tony Bowen of Waynesboro was listed as No. 1 after spring training, but Holmes' Junior College transfer Steve Reich of Plain Dealing, La., and junior Mike Magee of Bay St. Louis have been keeping the pressure on during pre-season workouts.

Freshman Randy Smith of Brookhaven is also showing progress at the quarterback spot.

"Like any football team, you must have an outstanding performer in the quarterback spot in order for your offense to function," says DSU head coach Don Denning. "Perhaps the term 'performer' is a misnomer in the fact that many teams have called on more than one player to fulfill the duties of this position. This is the case at the present time here since we have three individuals who have shown the capability of playing for us," the coach added.

According to Denning, Bowen is still the most consistent of the three, but Magee is much improved and Reich has shown he is beginning to get a concept of Delta State's passing attack, having missed spring training.

"We think that all three will continue to show improvement, particularly when we are able to pair them up with our No. 2 and 2 sets of receivers," Don added. "Of course, this type competition is excellent, because you need three people ready to play at this vital position."

According to Denning, Bowen, a 6-1, 195 pounder, continues to show he is rapidly developing into the type individual that "makes things happen."

"Not only does Tony's passing continue to be good, but his running is becoming a factor in our offense," Denning said.

Bowen was redshirted last year after earning All-State honors at Jones Junior College where he was voted the Most Valuable Back in the South Division of the Mississippi Junior College Conference.

A 6-0, 194 pounder, Magee was also redshirted by Delta State last season after transferring from Pearl River Junior College.

"Even though Mike doesn't possess as strong an arm as Bowen or Reich, the timing of his passing has been excellent," Denning added. "Mike has shown daily progress."

Reich, at 5-11 and 178 pounds, joined the Statesmen two weeks ago after transferring from Holmes Junior College where he was an All-State selection, passing for 2,858 yards and 22 touchdowns.

"Steve was probably one of the best passers to come out of the JC league in the last two years," Denning said. "He could provide a real key in our offensive scheme."

Smith, a 6-1, 209 pound rookie, prepped at Jackson McClure Academy and may also see action with the Statesmen as a punter.

"Randy is a big, strong individual who has improved tremendously since pre-season workouts began," Don noted. "I think in the future Randy will take his place in the competition for this position."

Denning says he is confident his quarterbacks have the type arms which will fit into Delta State's throwing game.

"We want to throw the football and I believe this area will improve as the season goes along," Denning added.

"Our quarterbacks can't show any experience in senior college football, but that's about to change in a hurry," he said, referring to Delta State's season opener Sept. 9 at East Texas State.

Ms. Cynthia Henley, right, is shown accepting delivery of her 1978 Chevrolet Camaro from Turan-Lane Chevrolet salesman Hak Doyle with Mrs. Robert Henley her mother.

"I was looking for a Camaro in a special color and with special options to purchase. At Turan-Lane Chevrolet salesman Hak Doyle showed me a Camaro I liked and gave me a very good deal. I wanted a Camaro for a long time and I am happy I visited the friendly folks at Turan-Lane Chevrolet."

Commission predicts good primitive weapon season

During the upcoming primitive weapon season in Mississippi, muzzleloading hunters may experience the best season ever. Wildlife biologists are predicting good hunting on many state wildlife areas for the special season December 2-13.

For the 12-day season hunters may take one buck (antlers visible above the natural hairline) per day with no season limit, and-or one antlerless deer per day, two per season except in certain counties. Conservation officers this year will be checking especially to see that not more than three antlerless deer are taken during the license year.

Depending on where sportsmen hunt in the state, bucks will be coming into the rut at different times, biologists say. The "rut" is when deer come into heat and have a desire for reproduction.

During early December hunters can look for rutting deer on Noxubee National Wildlife Refuge and on state areas like Malmalson, Upper Sardis, Tallahala, Choctaw and in most Delta areas. In many south Mississippi spots, bucks should be rutting sometime in January. Last year hunters took 2,106 deer during the muzzleloading season.

Primitive firearm hunters would do well at this time of year to look closely to see if mast (acorns and other nuts) is still abundant, especially in thick hardwood bottoms. In upland areas like Tallahala southwest of Newton, if the mast is being depleted, then look on ridges for honeysuckle and along logging roads for rubs and scrapes. Hunters shouldn't neglect browse marks on mushrooms in thick pine stands.

"A lot of buck rubs come in two cycles," says wildlife scientist Dr. David Gwynn of Mississippi State University. "Bucks occasionally are still scraping velvet off their racks early in bow season. Then later in the heat of the rut they begin to do real damage to young sapplings."

According to Gwynn, hunters can look for deer using food plots early in December in places having heavy deer populations like Carroll, Kemper and Montgomery counties, and on Sandy Creek, Tallahala, and Chickasaw wildlife areas.

"You will be seeing does and young bucks on many of these food plots. Larger bucks will usually frequent these sites during the rut toward the end of the season."

In Mississippi primitive weapons are defined as single or double-barreled muzzleloading rifles of at least .38 caliber and single or double-barreled muzzleloading shotguns with single ball or slug. They must use black powder with either percussion caps or flintlock. No archery-primitive weapon telescopic sights allowed. Longbows may also be used during this season by licensed hunters.

Public hunting program proposed by Game and Fish

Dove shooters looking for a good place to go hunting may have an easier time this year as a result of a new service offered by the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission's central office in Jackson.

The Commission is asking farmers and landowners who will have fields prepared and available for public hunting, either on a free or paid basis, to call the agency's public relations office in Jackson so they can help get the word to inquiring sportsmen.

"Every year people call our office about this time and ask where are some good places to go dove hunting," spokesman David Watts said.

"Of course we tell them about our wildlife areas located all across the state, but sometimes these are farther than the hunter wants to drive. In the past we have had no way of knowing what private landowners were putting on public dove shoots where the public could hunt.

"So this year we are asking landowners to call and give us their name, address, telephone number, and the size and location of their field, and we will in turn relay this to whoever calls our office," Watts said.

According to Watts, the Game and Fish Commission will keep a list of areas by county available to the public on a free or paid basis. Anyone calling in can find which spots are near his home.

The Jackson office of the Game and Fish Commission is located in the Robert E. Lee office building at 239 North Lamar Street in Jackson. To call and report areas available to the public for dove hunting, or to find out where to go, call the Commission at 354-7333, between the hours of eight and five, Monday through Friday.

WANDERLUST AMONG FISH

Some species of fish travel migratory routes which have been imprinted on their brains over many thousands of years of genetic transfer.

Among these are chinook salmon and steelhead trout, both tagged and identified in the Columbia River and later recaptured more than 2,500 miles away in the Gulf of Alaska.

The availability of food is another factor which causes fish to travel. Many saltwater fish like marlin, tuna and striped bass are known to range along coasts for hundreds of miles feeding on forage fish as they move about.

Inherited migratory traits and the pursuit of food are two valid reasons why fish travel, according to the Mercury outboard fishing press.

But they wonder about the motives of some touring carp. A few years ago, a carp tagged in Louisiana traveled up the Mississippi, turned west at St. Louis into the Missouri River, and was finally brought to net halfway across Missouri nearly a thousand miles from home.

Next, a carp tagged in Nebraska took a three-stream, thousand-plus mile journey south before being caught in Arkansas' White River.

More recently, other tagged carp have turned up from 420 to more than 600 miles from where they were first caught.

No one knows why carp travel. They don't migrate to spawn and they don't depend upon a mobile source of food. Perhaps they're just on vacation or out visiting relatives.

Triology:
KRISTIN LAVRANSDATTER
By Nobel Prize-
Winning Author
Author Sigrid Undset

In 1928, Norwegian novelist Sigrid Undset won the Nobel Prize for Literature. Fifty years later, her classic trilogy, Kristin Lavransdatter, will be published for the first time in paperback by Bantam Books.

Kristin Lavransdatter is one of the great heroines of modern fiction: a spirited, unconquerable woman with great personal strength and a compelling sense of responsibility. Set against the grand medieval life in Norway, the romantic saga of her life has been a favorite of teenagers and adults since its initial publication in 1923 and is currently being rediscovered by new readers.

Published by Knopf in the 1920's (first in three separate volumes and then in one single volume), 'Kristin Lavransdatter' went into 18 printings in its hardcover edition and has never gone out of print.

Following the original publishing plan, Bantam will release the book in three separate volumes with 'KRISTIN LAVRANSDATTER, I: The Bridal Wreath' to be published in September, 1978; 'Kristin Lavransdatter, II: The Mistress of Husaby' to be published October, 1978; and the third volume, 'Kristin Lavransdatter, III: The Cross' to be released in January, 1979.

The Bridal Wreath is a novel of youthful passion. Kristin is her father's adored favorite child, content with the bridegroom he has selected for her until she meets Erlend Nikulausson, the renegade nobleman who has been exiled for living in sin with another man's wife. For Erlend she gives up her honor and her father's favor, and with the utmost will persists against all obstacles to marry him. The second and third volumes of the trilogy trace Kristin's life from marriage to the cloister where she dies, alone, but still indomitable.

'Kristin Lavransdatter' grew out of Undset's strong interest in history and the medieval period. Her house in Lillehammer, Norway, was built in 1000 AD and furnished with genuine Norse antiques. At home, Undset usually wore the traditional medieval Norse costume. Her interest enabled her to write this novel of a past age and make it completely accessible to the modern reader.

About the Author

Sigrid Undset was a woman of strong personal convictions.

From childhood she was drawn into radical circles. Born in 1882, Undset grew up in Oslo, Norway, the daughter of an archaeologist, whose early death left his family in difficult circumstances.

She attended a school run by a leading feminist as a scholarship pupil, but left to work in an office to support her mother and sisters.

Ten years later, Undset embarked on her career as a author which culminated in the winning of the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1928. She was married to a painter, and raised six children, (three of his, and three of her own); the marriage ended in amicable divorce.

When the Nazis invaded, Undset volunteered for her country, one of the first women in Norway to do so. She was forced to flee to Sweden, and later to America where she lectured in the anti-totalitarian cause. During the latter part of her life her humanitarian philosophy drew her to religion, and she became a devout Catholic. Undset returned to Norway in 1945 and died there in 1949.

Tigers ready to put down a Notre Dame rebellion

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Bay High Tigers under the direction of head coach Billy Rhodes will face Notre Dame Rebels of Biloxi Friday night in Tiger stadium. This will be the Tigers first game of the season. Notre Dame defeated Cathedral of Natchez 6-0 last Friday.

Coach Rhodes said scouting showed that Notre Dame is a big club. "Fullback Randy Sentell goes at 216 pounds and one tackle weighs 255, but we are ready for the game," Rhodes said.

"We are a little light in the line on defense and offense. Strong points are our linebackers and defensive backs. We have a little experience in the backfield and have a total of 18 seniors on the squad," commented Rhodes Tuesday.

"It was a big boost to the team to have such a turnout for 'Meet The Team' night last Thursday, and we hope they will continue to support us through the season," added Rhodes.

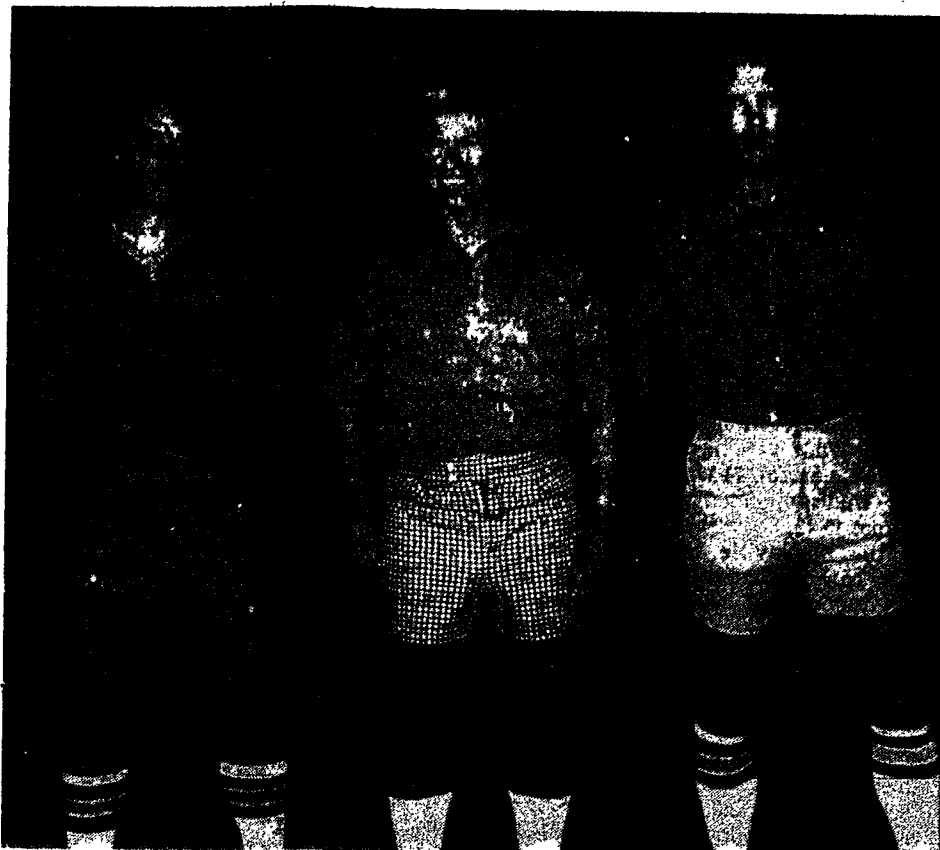

Rhodes reports Allen Proulx and Ken Ferrell will not see action due to injuries. Tim Gilmore has the virus.

Rhodes said his offensive starting line-up for Friday night will be Hewitt Parson, center; Daniel Edwards and Leroy Peterson, guards; Paige Hitchcock and Brett Barrett tackles; Joe Cabaniss, tight end; Tim Delcuze, fullback; Ronald Collins, running back and Mark Hardie, wide receiver.

Probable starters on defense will be Leroy Peterson, nose guard; Rod Stieffel and Paige Hitchcock, tackles; Brett Barrett and Kevin Favre, defensive ends; Daniel Edwards and Hewitt Parson, line backers; Ronald Collins and Chuck Benigo, corner backs; and Larry Jackson and Joe Cabaniss, safeties.

Last season, Bay High defeated Notre Dame in a 7-6 thriller for the season's opener in Tiger Stadium. Kick-off is scheduled at 7:30 p.m.

Junior Rocks stone St. John, 20 to 6

The St. Stanislaus Junior varsity football team defeated St. John 20-6 Monday night at Milner Stadium.

The Rockchaws scored two touchdowns in the second quarter and one in the third quarter.

Dave Boos, full back, scored the first touchdown over right tackle from the three yard line.

The second touchdown came with the completion of a 49 yard pass from quarterback Gary Sotak to tight end David Grapusa. Juan Betanzos kicked the point after.

The third touchdown came on a 57 yard run by Sotak around right end. Juan Betanzos kicked the point after.

St. John's only score came in the third quarter when quarterback Nicky Pitalo completed a 35-yard pass to Clayton Bechard. The point after attempt failed.

Team hustle and determination were shown by the young Rocks throughout the game, coaches reported.

The next Junior varsity game will be at D'Iberville Monday at 7 p.m.

The St. Stanislaus varsity team opens its season Sept. 8 with Pearl River central at Rockchaw Stadium.

TIGERS TO SUPPORT TIGERS- Julia Payne, left, and Mary Ann Alsbrook, Bay High Juniors, will be rooting for the Tigers as Tigers Friday. The two carry labels saying "I am a Tiger and proud of it." (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

Captain Lumpkin, 1st Mate Swanier to guide Pirates' maiden voyage

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Pass Christian Pirates opened the 1978 football season Friday night against Vancleave in Pirate Stadium.

Head Coach Buddy Lumpkin took over the helm of the Pirates when Coach Buddy Rogers left coaching for private enterprise after last season.

Lumpkin was an assistant under Rogers. The 1977 Pirates went 9-2 in the season.

Coach Lumpkin has Allen Parker as his assistant coach. In his first season as a head coach, Lumpkin didn't want to comment too much about his team.

On Vancleave, however, he said, "They have a fine hard hitting team, most of last year's linemen are returning."

"Vancleave has the most outstanding back in the Pascagoula River Conference returning from their 1977 squad is Pete Batson," added coach Lumpkin.

Vancleave was 9-2 for the 1977 season, finishing third in conference, behind Pass Christian's second.

"We have some fine quality players. Even though we have only one returning linemen on both our offensive and defensive lines, we will be ready to play Friday night," the Pass coach stated.

Coach Lumpkin lists as his probable starting offensive team Mark Necaise, center; Jonathan Cole or Mike Whitmann at guard on one side and Arnold Dedeaux or Clarence White on the other side; James Stewart and Richard Reynolds, tackles; C.J. Bowser, tight end; Robert Bailey, split end; Virgil Swanier, quarterback; Bruce Irving, flanker; Macky Dedeaux, fullback; and Gene Lang tailback.

Probable starters on defense are Mike Whitmann and Mike Wuestoff, guards; James Stewart or Richard Reynolds at one tackle, and Charles Stewart at the other; C. J. Bowser, Macky Dedeaux and Arnold Dedeaux, line backers; John Pat Swanier, strong safety; Dwight Dedeaux, safety; Robert Bailey at one corner and either James Cannon or Gene Lang at the other corner.

Coach Lumpkin's backfield will be led by veteran quarterback Virgil Swanier.

The Pirates are heavy on experience in the backfield, and coach Lumpkin is in hopes his new line will give his team an opportunity to have the scoring power of the 1977 Pirates.

FIELD GENERAL-Veteran quarterback Virgil Swanier will be directing the offense for the Pass Christian Pirates. In their opening game against Vancleave Friday, Swanier, a senior, was number one quarterback for the Pirates last season when they racked up a 9-2 record.

Only minor bruises in opener

Hawks high on Victories, working on a streak

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock North Central, under the direction of veteran quarterback Vincent Adams, will be looking for victory No. Two Friday night when they entertain Our Lady of Victories in Hawk Stadium.

The Hawks, fresh off an opening season win last week, will start with the same line-up as against St. John according to Head Coach Irvin Favre.

"We had only a few bruises against St. John last week and came out of the game O.K.," stated Coach Favre Tuesday.

"Our Lady of Victories has one of the best teams they have had during the last five seasons, and we have a good game with them each year," added Coach Favre.

Coach Favre was well pleased with the support given his team by the spectators last Friday and commented, "We need the support of the fans and we appreciate their support last week, and I hope even more will turn out this week."

"We play the games one at a time and we are looking for victory number two, we are ready for OLV," added Coach Favre.

"In addition to the fan support we have a fine support from the School Board and administration. The football programs at Hancock are improving and we really appreciate it," Coach Favre said in closing.

Probable offensive line-up for the Hawks Friday night will be John Hamilton, center; Gene Breazeale and David Hall, guards; Richard Storey and Robert Shiyou, tackles; Byron Ladner, tight end; Rene Baum, split end; Vincent Adams, quarterback; Jesse Draime, fullback; Greg Ladner, half back; and David Clark, halfback.

Starters on defense will be John Hamilton and Tim Emmons, guards; Richard Storey and Robert Shiyou, tackles; Gene Breazeale and Kent Ladner, defensive ends; Jesse Draime and Chris Vial, line backers; Vincent Adams, safety; and David Clark and Rene Baum, defensive half backs.

Last season the Hawks defeated OLV 31-0, but Coach Favre said scouting reports show them as an "improved" club this season.

Tiger Pride '78 drum major is Sarah Gibson

Taking over the reigns as drum major of Bay High Tiger Pride Band this year is Sarah Gibson, according to Glen Page, band director.

Relinquishing those reigns is Melinda Smith, who held first chair in the flute section of Tiger Pride Band last year as well as being drum major. A 1978 Bay High graduate, Melinda is now drum major of the Pearl River College Band. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Smith of Bay St. Louis.

Miss Smith earned many awards while with Tiger Pride. She received the John Phillip Sousa Band Award in 1977, was written up in "Who's Who in Music" for two years, was chosen for the Collegiate Win Band, and for two consecutive years received a trophy for outstanding band member, awarded at the annual Band Banquet. Last May Miss Smith was named by Purdue University to the All-American Hall of Fame in music, an award honoring outstanding band students in the country. She was also chosen as a member of the Delta State Honor Band for 1978.

Miss Gibson, a junior at Bay High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gibson, Jr. of Bay St. Louis. She performed with the rifle corps of Tiger Pride last year, and also plays the flute and piccolo.

Sarah attended a two-week camp held on the campus of the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg in July and was chosen to play in the Symphonic Band.

After attending the Heart of Dixie Band Camp held earlier in the summer on the campus of the University of Southern Alabama in Mobile, Sarah tied for first place in drum major contest.

Dove hunters warned on bait

Anxious hunters around the state are awaiting the start of Mississippi's first dove season set to open at noon on Saturday, Sept. 2, in areas north of Highway 84. If state wildlife biologists are correct, shooters should have a bumper crop of birds on state and private lands during the first hunt that continues through Sept. 24.

During the 1976-77 season, some 119,000 hunters harvested almost 3.5 million doves, according to Game and Fish Wildlife Coordinator Edsel Cliburn of Brandon. Citing a recently completed survey on hunting, he estimated that about 60 percent of the total doves taken during the year came during the first season in the north zone above the Highway 84 dividing line.

"Hunting pressure and enthusiasm are the main reasons why so many birds are taken during this first season," Cliburn said.

"This first season is the first real hunt of the year, and in many cases it turns out to be a social occasion with old friends getting together and reminiscing. Probably there are good concentrations of birds later on in the year and there could be equally good hunting if hunters would put out the effort."

South zone hunters, who take to the fields Sept. 23 and Oct. 15, have some of their best hunting, usually during the last season since the cold weather forces birds south toward the Gulf Coast. "Once here, birds tend to shift around from one spot to another depending on available food," Cliburn said.

"The hunters in the lower part of the state have wanted a later hunting season, so we set the last state-wide dove hunt to run from December 23 through January 15, 1979."

According to Game and Fish Commission figures, the average dove hunter takes home about six birds on each of the approximately five days he hunts during the year.

Dove hunting, biologists say, ranks third in popularity among shooters behind squirrel and deer hunting. During the first dove season, the following wildlife areas north of Highway 84 will have hunting available to the public: Choctaw, northwest of Louisville, 12 acres; Chickasaw, northeast of Houston, 50 acres; Bucatunga, northeast of Quitman, 60 acres; Okatibbee, northwest of Meridian, 40 acres; Pearl River, on Ross Barnett Reservoir, John Bell Williams, Northeast of Tupelo, 45 acres; Copiah County, west of Hazlehurst, 50 acres; Grenada Waterfowl, east of Grenada, 20 acres; Upper Sardis, north of Oxford, 30 acres; Mallowville, west of Grenada, 150 acres; Percy, west of Hattiesburg, 30 acres; and Hillside National Wildlife Refuge, south of Hattiesburg, 2,000 acres. Pazo City at Thornton will have dove hunts on Sept. 23 and 30 in designated fields totaling some 200 acres.

State shooting hours on dove are from noon until sunset. The daily limit is 12 and possession limit is 24, with no possession limit on opening day.

Wildcats debut Saturday in Poplarville

Pearl River Junior College's Wildcats will kick off its 1978 football season in Poplarville Saturday night against the Northeast Tigers from Booneville.

The 7:30 p.m. contest in Doble Holden Stadium renews competition between the inter-divisional teams after two years. Pearl River and Northeast last met in November 1975 at Booneville, where the Wildcats came from behind for a narrow 14-10 win.

The Wildcats and Tigers have met 12 times since 1948 with the Booneville team winning only one contest - that was a 20-7 victory, back in 1950.

Times seem to be changing for the Tigers as last year's ledger shows the Northeast team with an overall 6-4 mark and 4-2 divisional record. Both stats were good enough for second place in the North Division of the Mississippi Junior College Conference.

"We really don't know what to expect," said J. C. Arban, head coach of the Wildcats, "all we have to go by are films from last year." The films are not real conclusive as the Cat coaches are still pondering over how many of the Tigers are returning from last year's squad.

"From all accounts they'll be tough this year," Arban said. Last year the Tigers did score an easy 33-6 win over Gulf Coast of the South Division and that has the Wildcat head man worried. "Northeast will be no patsy," Arban said, "I expect a scrappy night for my team."

Pearl River finished two-day practice last week with a full scale scrimmage on Saturday. According to Arban, the Wildcats' hustle was impressive with the defensive unit looking strong. On offense the biggest problems are mental mistakes on blocking assignments and pass routes. "The mistakes we made during the scrimmage can be corrected," Arban said, "but it will take a lot of effort this week to get the correct timing down."

Arban plans to limit hitting during the early part of the week to 20 to 30 minutes per practice, "and that's just to keep the muscles toned up."

PRC's starting offensive lineup consists of all sophomores, but the starters do not necessarily have experience at the position they are playing.

In the backfield will be David Wyman (160) Morgan City La., quarterback; Henry Smith, (160) Poplarville, tailback; Bruce Landrum, (202) Columbia and Micky Walker, (177) Picayune at fullback; Scott Arban (150) Poplarville, and Billy Amacker, (188) Poplarville at the wide outs; Andy Thames, (192) Hattiesburg, at tight end; Eddie Forbes, (260) West Marion and Donald Fortenberry, (247) Columbia at tackles; David Graham, (218) Purvis at guard and Jeffrey Reid, (210) Bay St. Louis and Clarence Piazza (230) alternating at the other guard position; Philip Falls (215) of Bassfield will be the center.

On defense Anthony Williams of Hattiesburg will be the only freshman starting. He has nallied down the cornerback post along with Greg Pittman of Columbia, a quarterback from last year. At monster will be Robert May (190) of Poplarville;

Werner Pierce, (202) Petal and Ricky McDaniels (215), Columbia Academy, are the linebackers; with Randy Russell of Picayune playing nose guard.

Philip Lee, Picayune and David Cox, Lumberton, are the defensive ends with Kent Blankenship of Hattiesburg playing safety. Ronald Phillips, Hattiesburg and Charles Armstrong, Prentiss, are the tackles. Both push the scale at 240.

Kevin Blankenship of Hattiesburg will do the punting, while Reid kicks off and Lee does the extra points.

The Wildcats will have little time to regroup after the initial contest Saturday, as the Hinds Eagles are on tap for Thursday night, Sept. 7 on the Raymond campus.

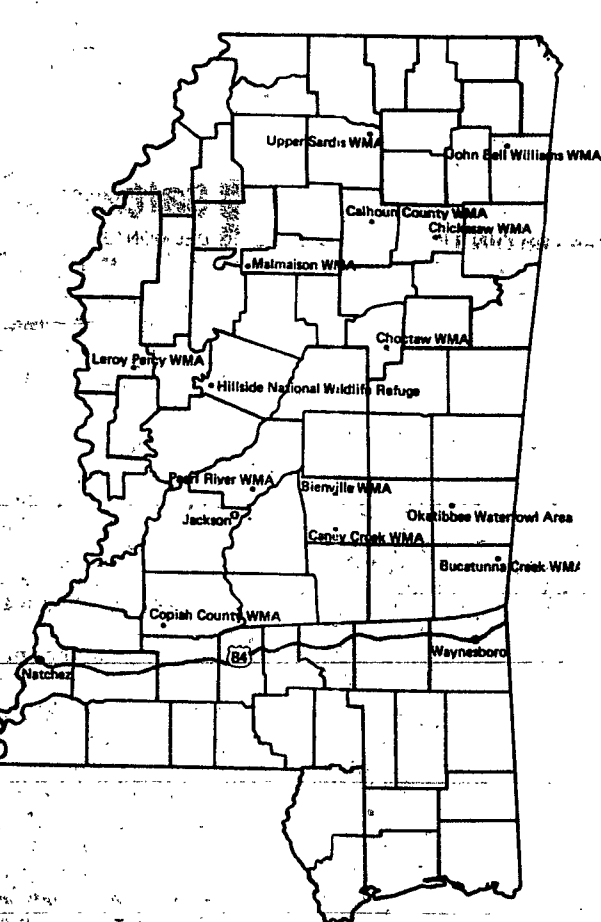

FROM FEATHERS TO FUR - These former Hancock North Central Hawks will be among the Pearl River Junior College Wildcats when they kick-off at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Doble Holden Stadium against Northeast: Mark Ladner, 83, tight end; Kent Malley, 55, center; and Denist Nelson, 29, running back.

TIGERS TURNED WILDCAT - Pearl River College will open its 1978 football season at home Saturday, Sept. 2 against Northeast. These former Bay High Tigers will be on the field when the Wildcats kick-off at 7:30 p.m. in the Doble Holden Stadium: Tracy Klein, 87, wide receiver; Clarence Piazza, 60, guard; Louis Dunklin, 86, WR; Scott Thomas, 50, tackle; and Jeffery Reid, guard.

PUBLIC DOVE AREAS IN NORTH ZONE

doves to their fields legally.

"Baiting," the illegal practice of attracting doves to shooting area fields, has been a problem for years in Mississippi and other Southeastern states. Despite revised regulations permitting liberal planting, harvesting and manipulation of grain crops, baiting continues, according to state and federal conservation officials.

"In many communities dove hunting has become an annual social event," Game and Fish Director Joe Stone said. "Landowners naturally want to insure their guest successful hunting. During recent years, wildlife enforcement agents, both state and federal, have been confronted with some hostility when dove hunters have been cited for baiting regulations, and this year we would like to try and prevent any of this," he said.

"The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is cooperating with the Game and Fish Commission this hunting season in placing special emphasis on interpreting the dove hunting regulations, since doves are migratory game birds afforded protection under the Migratory Bird Treat Act," Senior Resident Agent Sidney Woodson said.

Agencies provide answers to first pregnancy anxiety

UNIQUE PROGRAM - The healthy development of the unborn child is the goal of "Pierre the Pelican". This unique program, co-sponsored by the Mental Health Association in Mississippi and the Mississippi Public Health Department, Division of Maternal and Child Health, is now available to citizens of Hancock County.

Are you pregnant for the first time? Do you have questions that you feel uncomfortable to ask your physician? Pregnancy, for most women, is a time of anxiety and uncertainty, coupled with many questions that sometimes go unanswered.

The Mental Health Association in Mississippi and the Mississippi Public Health Department-Division of Maternal and Child Health, are co-sponsoring a program to guide you in being better prepared mentally and emotionally for the birth of your first baby.

This informative and educational series is provided free of charge to women carrying their first babies.

In a series of nine pamphlets "Pierre the Pelican", a cartoon-like character, introduces and informs pregnant mothers what to expect during these months.

Topics covered include expectant mothers who work, financial problems, the role of the father-to-be, attitudes toward the unborn baby, preparation for the birth process, feeding techniques and other items of interest to prospective parents. The program is limited to any first time pregnancy. Although the program is not statewide yet, the Mental Health Association is inviting local organizations in Mississippi to inquire about assisting with the program in their home county. Immediate inquiries should be made to: Pierre-the-Pelican, P.O. Box 5041, Jackson, 39216, Attention: Jay Andra Derosby.

CLEANING WALLPAPER

Some wall papers are water-sensitive, or nonwashable, so be very careful when you clean them. One of the most successful cleaners is similar to putty. It picks up dirt when the cleaner is lightly rubbed against the paper. Knead the mass so the fresh, clean parts are brought out. After cleaning the wallpaper, carefully brush off loose bits.

If paper is only slightly soiled, use semi-stale bread. Rub large pieces from which the crust has been removed, over the surface of the paper. Work from ceiling to baseboard in wide, sweeping strokes, overlapping cleaned portions. As bread becomes soiled, fold to a clean section.

Engraved or lithographed wallpapers, usually printed with oil inks on bondstock paper, are also cleaned with the putty or dough-type commercial cleaner; they are only partially water-resistant.

PLASTIC WALLPAPER

Many wallpapers are plastic coated or impregnated. Plastic papers may be washed frequently and scrubbed with soaps and cleaning solutions.

Follow manufacturer's instructions.

SPOT CLEANING

For finger marks, simply rub with art gum. Ink spots can be eliminated with ink remover. This may remove part of the pattern, but if the spot is small, the paper can be repainted with poster paint.

For grease spots and oil spots, use a thick paste of Fuller's Earth and benzine or carbon tetrachloride, applied lightly. After it has dried, brush off. Spots may also be removed by pressing a piece of white blotting paper against affected areas with a hot iron. Hold in place for several minutes. Most grease will be soaked up by the blotter.

Sponsoring the seminar are the University of Mississippi School of Pharmacy, the Ole Miss Bureau of Pharmaceutical Services, and the Mississippi State Pharmaceutical Association.

Pharmacists from Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River and Stone counties in District IX are expected to attend the seminar.

Dean Wallace L. Guess of the Ole Miss School of

"By registering and attending a seminar in his district, each pharmacist is taking an important step toward maintaining his store of pharmaceutical knowledge....and taking that step with a minimum amount of inconvenience."

Robert Reed of Laurel, president of the State Association, also encouraged district pharmacists to attend the seminar.

Greenville principal is MAE president

Mrs. Helen Moore, a Greenville elementary principal, has assumed the presidency of Mississippi Association of Educators.

A life member of the National Education Association of which MAE is the state affiliate, Mrs. Moore has been a Representative Assembly delegate for eight years, a Resolutions Committee member, a delegate to the NEA Constitutional Convention and a charter member of the NEA Black Caucus.

Mrs. Moore has served the state education association as a member of the Merger Committee for Mississippi Teachers Association during merger with the Mississippi Education Association. These two associations now form Mississippi Association of Educators.

She has been a science teacher and a first and second grade teacher. Mrs. Moore holds master's degrees in elementary education and administration.

The mother of three, Mrs. Moore has been president of the Greenville local education association as well as a faculty representative, public relations chairperson and on the human relations committee.

She has been awarded a National Science Foundation Grant, Outstanding Ebony Award, service Award, Volunteer Award for Service to 60 Plus, Outstanding Black Educator and listed in Who's Who of Black Americans.

"I would like to see MAE increase membership and broaden the base of membership so that members from all categories of education are fully included," she said. "I hope that the gap between supervisory personnel or administrators and classroom teachers would be narrowed. I believe that the United Teaching Profession philosophy is one which both segments would be proud to identify," she added.

Other goals during Mrs. Moore's administration at MAE include: increased activity in political action, a full-time president, expanded membership involvement in as many areas as possible, redirection of the goals of the Resolutions Committee so that adopted goals can be transmitted into action, improve membership services, and make the association more creative.

"Most of all, we must not lose sight of the fact that education in this state and in this nation will remain a public trust. There is no substitute for quality. There is strength in unity and united we must remain," she concluded.

Dangerous gas heaters under CPSC scrutiny

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) today decided to further analyze two devices for shutting down unvented gas space heaters before a high level of carbon monoxide develops in the surrounding living space.

This examination comprises part of the agency's effort to find a means for reducing carbon monoxide poisonings and asphyxiations from the unvented heaters.

To be studied is an oxygen depletion sensing device widely used in Europe to detect low oxygen content in the living area and to shut off the heater before a hazardous atmosphere develops.

The other is a temperature limiting device that would turn off the heaters when the temperature of the living space reaches 100 degrees, with the aim of avoiding a high level of carbon monoxide production.

In February this year the Commission proposed to ban the unvented gas-fired space heaters, which have accounted for at least 73 deaths since 1973 from carbon monoxide poisoning or asphyxiation.

The Commission voted a 90-day extension from August 29, to study the devices which will provide needed time to determine whether a shut-off mechanism can help make the heaters safer.

After studies are completed, CPSC will decide whether a shut-off device can be incorporated into a safety standard for the unvented heaters, making a total ban unnecessary.

By November 29, the Commission must issue a final rule banning the unvented gas space heaters, or withdraw its proposal to ban.

The heaters do not have an outside vent to remove combustion wastes and depend on normal room ventilation to get rid of dangerous carbon monoxide. Inadequate air flow or maladjusted burners, coupled with a normal reduction in room oxygen from burning fuel, can cause fatal levels of the gas to accumulate.

Because they are relatively inexpensive to operate, the unvented gas-fired heaters are mainly used by the aged and lower income groups, primarily in the South and Southwest where central heating systems are uneconomical because cold weather is not prevalent.

Banning the heaters outright could mean people would have to spend from $52 to $77 a year to replace an unvented heater fueled with LP (liquid petroleum) gas, and from $25-$40 annually to get a substitute for an unvented heater run on natural gas.

CPSC received 280 comments on the proposed ban during a written comment period and public meetings earlier this year in Washington, D.C., Miami and Dallas.

The majority opposed a ban, citing the extreme economic hardship it would pose, a possible tendency for some owners to continue using the unvented appliances beyond their useful life to avoid installing more expensive vented heaters, and possible substitution of electric heaters in homes where wiring may be inadequate to handle the heavy extra load.

Nine states now ban unvented gas space heaters: California, Connecticut, Kentucky, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, Nevada and Ohio.

Twenty other states and the District of Columbia have partly banned their use by prohibiting operation in nursing and convalescent homes, sanatoriums and orphanages.

Bay Library plans photography display

A display of "Religious Architecture in Mississippi," a photographic survey of religious structures in the state, will open Friday in the Crawford Room of City-County Library, Bay St. Louis. More than 80 buildings across Mississippi will be pictured in this special exhibit to be on display through September 21.

The exhibition is being circulated by the State Historical Museum, a division of the Mississippi Department of Archives and History.

"The religious architecture of Mississippi, in all its varied forms, has preserved a part of the spiritual, social, and artistic history of the state," noted Prima Wusnach, Library director.

Through the 19th and 20th Centuries, national architectural trends have been adapted and altered by local tastes and interpretations by Mississippi architects and builders in the materials available to them. This has produced a rich and varied heritage of religious buildings that continue to be preserved and appreciated, she said.

"Religious Architecture in Mississippi" may be seen during library hours Monday through Saturday. The public is invited to see the exhibit. There is no admission charge. For more information about the exhibit contact City-County Library at 467-4528.

'Crime Resistance Alert' series presented

John T. Kelly, special agent in charge of the FBI's Jackson office, said the bureau plans to release a series of "Crime Resistance Alerts."

Some 13 special messages from the FBI will be issued, one every three weeks, according to Kelly.

The first Alert is entitled "Wheeling And Stealing."

"Thinking back a few years bicycles were, for the most part, considered toys. When one disappeared, it was usually because some youngster took it for a joy ride and failed to return it.

"Unfortunately, that's often not the case today. Many bicycles are hardly toys. They are quite valuable, especially those equipped with finely machined gears and accessories. As a result, bicycles are stolen in great numbers by professional thieves.

"Bicycles are often stolen off of lawns or porches and out of unlocked garages at night. School yards and playgrounds are popular targets of bike thieves during the daytime.

"Don't make it easy for a bike thief to steal your bicycle. Practice these few crime resistance reminders which could help you to 'keep on biking.'"

"Register all bicycles with the appropriate local agency. Permanently etch your driver's license number preceded by your state's initials on the frame of all your family's bicycles. This will make it identifiable to a police agency. Report the theft of any bicycle to the police.

"Don't leave bicycles on the lawn, on the porch or in an unlocked garage - especially at night. If a bicycle must be left unattended anywhere, it should be secured to a solidly fixed rack or tree with a good quality chain and lock. The chain should not be looped just through a wheel but through the frame and both wheels.

"Regularly remind your children that just as bicycle safety rules will reduce the chances of their being hurt in an accident, crime safety practices will reduce the chance that their bike will be stolen.

"Encourage school and recreation authorities to provide secure bike racks located where they can be viewed by employees of the facility.

"Keep your wits - and keep your wheels.

William H. Webster
Director

Safety guidelines designed to protect school children

Hancock County insurance agents, through the Insurance Information Institute, have issued a set of guidelines for motorists designed to enhance the safety of walking and bicycle riding school children.

Mississippi Department of Public Safety records indicate that during the last school year, 20 children were killed and 171 others injured in pedestrian and bicycle accidents in the state.

The insurance agents are urging motorists to make the streets safer for youngsters by driving with extreme care around schools, and other places where children gather.

Drivers should be especially careful between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m., the time period in which the greatest number of schoolchildren are hit by cars.

To help curb the number of pedestrian and bicycle accidents involving schoolchildren, the I.I.I. offers drivers the following safety reminders:

-Learn the locations of school zones along the routes you frequently travel, and observe their reduced speed limit.

-Stay alert while driving, not only in school zones, but throughout the city. Nine out of every 10 schoolchildren hit by cars are outside school zones, according to the Highway Users Federation.

-Though children may be looking in your direction, don't assume they have seen your vehicle until they have looked directly at you inside the car.

-Watch for kids behind parked cars. Some are so short they cannot be seen behind cars and other obstacles blocking the view.

-When passing children on bicycles, give them plenty of room; don't crowd them into the curb. Slow to their speed, then ease around them.

-Keep in mind that some crosswalks may be visible to children but too faded for a person in an automobile to see. Watch for and obey crosswalk signs.

-Stop when a school bus is stationary with its stop lights flashing.

The I.I.I. also urges parents to instruct their children in the following rules of safety for pedestrians:

-Always use sidewalks; and where sidewalks are not provided, walk on the left side of the street, facing traffic.

-Cross streets only at intersections, and look in all directions for any traffic. Cross only when traffic lanes are free of oncoming vehicles.

-If school crossing guards are present, cross with the guards and obey their instructions at all times.

-Children who ride bicycles to school should ride with the traffic and should obey all traffic laws. Youngsters should walk their bicycle across any intersections.

United Way supports Girl Scout activities in Hancock County

Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council sets high goals for every girl in the Girl Scout Program. Every activity and program is aimed toward the growth of the individual girl.

Emphasis is placed on four major areas of growth: deepening awareness of self as a unique person of worth; relating to others with increasing skill, maturity and satisfaction; developing values to give meaning and direction to her life; and contributing to the betterment of her society through use of her own talent and in cooperative effort with others.

Gulf Pines Council serves over 300 Girl Scouts in Hancock County and offers each of them the experiences and opportunities to achieve the goals set forth. The following pictorial highlights give an insight into "making it happen" with the help of all who support United Way.

The Sea Coast Echo feature

SEA COAST ECHO-THURSDAY,
AUGUST 31, 1978-1C

WORLD FRIENDSHIP JAMBOREE - The first World Friendship Jamboree was held in Hancock County at the National Space Technology Laboratory site in 1977. Over 500 Girl Scouts participated in activities ranging from survival skills, international songs and dances, preparation of international foods over campfires; and the observed parachute jumps by military forces. Officials at the NASA site gave special presentations of films on space exploration. The Consulate General from Switzerland, Vice-Consul from South Africa and Brazil, attended and shared special cultural interests with the girls.

CAMP ITI KANA - Camp Iti Kana is not just a camp. It is a learning center and an environmental center for the entire Council area of fifteen counties. Activities and programs encompassing The Five Worlds of Girl Scouting and the goals for girls are conducted year-round at Camp Iti Kana. The camp also is the center for training of adult volunteers. Hancock County adult leaders and all volunteers are coordinated by Mrs. Ethel Schott of Waveland.

THERE'S DOUBLE PLEASURE WHEN YOU KNOW
YOU ARE GIVING WISELY.
YOUR ONE GIFT WORKS MANY WONDERS
WHEN YOU GIVE THE UNITED WAY.
THANKS TO YOU... IT WORKS FOR ALL OF US.

GIRL SCOUTS - GULF PINES COUNCIL.
There are seven thousand girls in the council, with three hundred and fifty local girls participating in the 19 Hancock County troops, led by 100 adults. In addition to training programs and civic activities, the girls enjoy fellowship and fun, along with preparation for young womanhood. Their fine camp "Ita Kana" provides happy weekend and summer vacations.

ANNUAL MALL EXHIBIT - The annual Mall Event involves all Hancock County Girl Scouts in exhibiting special visual arts they have created, performing in dramatic and musical presentations, and participating in a large event which provides a learning opportunity in many areas but helps all girls develop poise and talent who share in it.
